HONEYWELL NAMED DAVID WEEKLEY HOMES 2009 “PARTNERS OF CHOICE” AWARD WINNER

Honeywell Earns “A” Rating for Quality

MINNEAPOLIS, Aug. 27, 2009 – Honeywell (NYSE: HON) announced today that David Weekley Homes, one of the nation’s largest privately held homebuilders, named Honeywell a 2009 “Partners of Choice Award” winner. Honeywell received an “A” rating for quality in the 2009 survey program. This is the fifth consecutive year that Honeywell has received the award for quality.

The award is based on David Weekley Homes’ National Trading Partner Survey, a quarterly review of approximately 150 suppliers rated by team members of David Weekley Homes. Survey respondents are asked a series of questions and asked to rate trading partners on a one to 10 scale for quality and service. The scores are assigned an Alpha rating – ranging from A-F. The “Partners of Choice Award” is presented to suppliers who maintain either an “A” rating in Quality or Service for the previous 12 months or an “A,A” rating in Quality and Service.

“We believe the survey is a practical way to measure world-class excellence,” said Bill Justus, vice president of supply chain services for David Weekley Homes. “It levels the playing field by allowing us to measure a company’s performance against its direct competitors, and companies in completely different industries. We are able to use the results to continue to provide the best experience possible for our homeowners.”

Justus launched the unique supplier rating system to achieve channel alignment of all parties within the supply chain. The system provides feedback from David Weekley Homes’ builders, design center, warranty service, administrative personnel, and executive team. Partners like Honeywell know exactly how they are doing in each segment – and at every level – inside the Weekley organization.
